

Dear Parents and Carers,

We had our final assembly today. All students have been informed of the additional sessions that will take place to ensure we improve our grades during the next few weeks. Students will be in school all day, every day until their final exam. It is vital that students work hard during these final cramming sessions.

Form intervention has ended but we will continue to deliver messages during normal form time. It is imperative that all students are in their form rooms by 8.20am in order to be fully prepared for their examinations. After school sessions will be available when appropriate. Students should feel free to email or meet their teachers to address any issues or misconceptions.

Students should be revising lots at home. On Monday, all students must revise at home. They have so many resources to choose from: online masterclasses delivered by experts (some are examiners), revision guides, subject websites with a wealth of revision resources and the exam board websites with past papers and mark schemes alongside specifications. Our students are so fortunate but must make use of these resources.

Thank you for your continued support. I will write to you regularly during the next few weeks to update you. You should also receive messages from subjects. Please make sure that your details are correct at the office as we may need to phone you. If your child is ill they must come to school and try the exam as we cannot complete them at any other time.

Finally, it is a pleasure to work with the Year 11 students. The vast majority are doing really well. We just need one big final push to ensure we get over the next boundary and achieve even greater grades. This will of course give the students more choice for next year when they continue their journey elsewhere.
